DEPTFORD CHURCH STREET SITE UPDATE

Now that the site team has moved our offices into the arches under the railway line, we wanted to update you on progress at Tideway's Deptford Church Street site.

We have been breaking out the temporary concrete surface needed during construction and are now preparing to start landscaping work. This will transform the current worksite into an improved public space and playground. Landscaping should be finished in November, before the site opens for public access in early 2025.

Road closure

From August Bank Holiday Monday, we will begin working on an existing sewer underneath Deptford Church Street. This will require working around eight metres below ground and take around three months to complete. Due to the depth of excavation required, there will be period of around three weeks when we will need to break out some concrete, which may be noisy, before installing temporary sheet piles.

These planned works will mean the southbound closure of Deptford Church Street to vehicles from 26 August onwards. Traffic will be diverted via Norman Road and Greenwich High Road. Electronic signs have been displayed to notify road users of the upcoming changes. Pedestrian access along Deptford Church Street will not be affected.

Signage and traffic management for the diversion will be implemented overnight to minimise impact on road users. A second period of overnight working will be required for the realignment of site hoarding later during the road closure.

Following completion of these sewer works, the lane closure and diversion are planned to remain for the subsequent Cycle Superhighway works. Pedestrian access will be maintained throughout, including a temporary crossing on Deptford Church Street. We are working closely with Lewisham Council to co-ordinate these works, to limit any disruption for the public.
